

I understand that there is the possibility of LPFM stations that may uproot current translator frequencies by having a higher priority. It is my opinion that this not be. I listen often to KLOVE which provides excellent programming. We do not have another option of high quality religious music in the listening area. It is an asset to my community with its family friendly message. I believe that K-LOVE benefits the public interest by the encouragement of the programming both musical and talk. I never have any concerns of having it on for children or grandchildren to be listening to.
